$64.99 . In recent years, Steam has become increasingly popular among hackers, as well as game developers, and has done so using simple, hidden security flaws. In March 2014, Valve issued a "Steam Play" beta, which could allow third party game developers to release games for the Steam platform while remaining completely independent, and the success of that program has led to the full launch in September, due to the nature of the.
