Most of the officers who took up to protest in front of the IDHR office at Chandigarh on Thursday did not work there. A report in The Tribune on Friday says that the IDHR has hired its first woman officer at a salary of Rs 1.15 lakh per month, which is much lower than her male colleagues, who are paid at least Rs 2.15 lakh. According to sources, most of the officers who took up to protest against the low salary were not placed in the IDHR department. In the last two weeks, the IDHR selected an additional six officers from the cities and it was supposed that all the officers would be placed in the Chandigarh office. "There are around 1,600 employees in the IDHR department, of which around 70 are female. There are only 48 women in the five regional centres in the IDHR region (Delhi, Chandigarh, Jaipur, Jodhpur and Bhopal). "A senior female IDHR officer said her department is 'inactive and' females working in the department have to prove that they are married before the department." "She said the women recruitments in the past had been kept 'low' due to 'political reasons'," said the report. It also quotes the female personnel as saying that the department does not include 'gender sensitivity' in the initial training of the recruits. Ladies and gentlemen, as you may or may not have heard, Sen. Bernie Sanders is the new nominee for the 2016 Democratic presidential nomination, and it is my (incredible) honour to be announcing this on his behalf. If you've watched my spots at all, you know that I have a habit of referring to my interns as "my people," and that's because I'm proud to have my people on the ground all across the country. By "my people," I mean the dedicated volunteers who really get out and knock on doors to help elect progressive candidates. I have always said that we must find candidates that we can believe in, that we can believe in hard, that can take on the titans of the Democratic Party and take

WordPress is licensed under the GNU General Public License.Q: Detour a turnstile Background Consider a turnstile (or as it is usually called a rotating door) such that it rotates from an opened to a closed position. This is an application which can be easily extended to something like being able to control speed, as well as doing something like 2 doors, one for passage, one for exit. In this case, it will only be able to rotate in one direction, and the main reason for this is that the limiting or closest to limiting aspect is that of magnetic field which would be in conflict with the rotation-speed of the door. Note that since this is to be a continuous machine, it should also be capable of selecting a different orientation (thereby reversing it's rotation direction) by just rotating through a certain angle and then coming to a complete stop. The door may then be closed from the outside, or opened from the inside with the use of magnets or other means. Question I would like to know whether it is possible to "detour" or "bend" this mechanism to avoid the magnetic field problem. Is there a way d0c515b9f4
